MEMORIES

one by one,

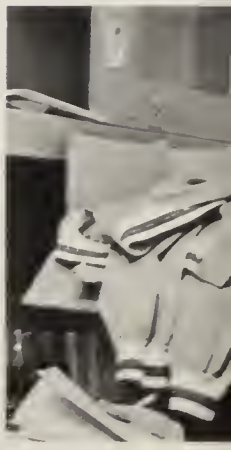
all together

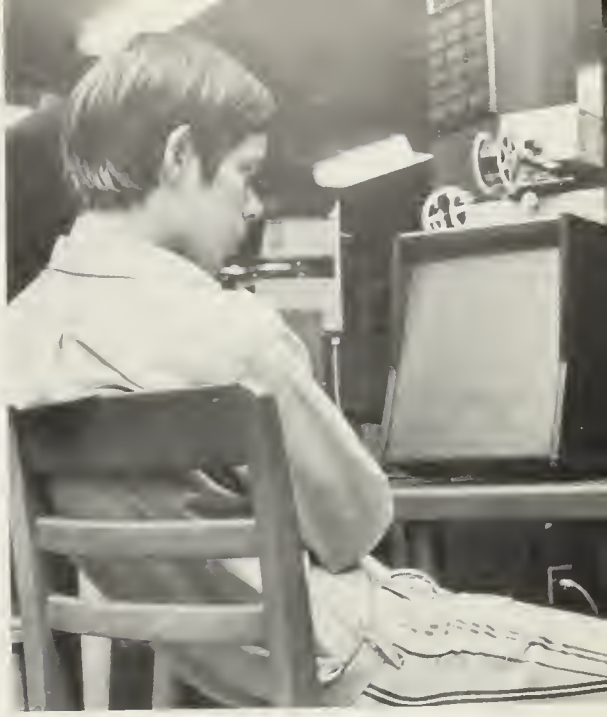
Marple-Newtown Senior H.S. Library
Newtown Square, Pennsylvania
177.4

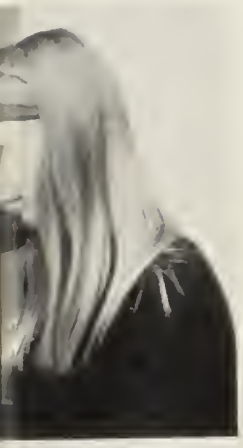
One by one, all together,
We strive to fulfill our lives
With eagerness and anticipation.
And we ask one another,
Where shall we go?
What shall we be?

And with wonder and anxiety,
We proceed.

Michael Muchnik '70

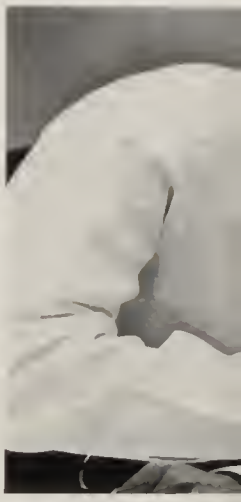






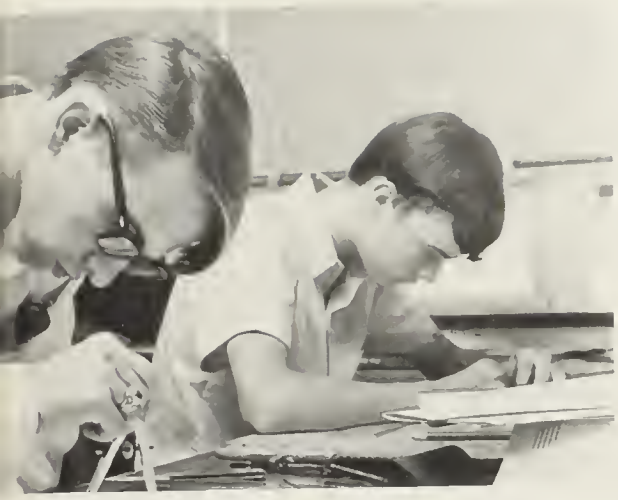
With a spin, leap, alive we're alive!
We're wonderful one times one.

E. E. Cummings



I am only one,
But still I am one.
I cannot do everything,
But still I can do something;
And because I cannot do everything
I will not refuse to do
The something that I can do.

Edward Everett Hale



One by one thy duties wait thee,
Let thy whole strength go to each.
Let no future dreams elate thee,
Learn thou first what these can teach.

'72 Presents Black Comedy

BLACK COMEDY reflects the consequences of living in a world dependent upon mechanical devices. It depicts the misadventures of a poor young artist who plans a party for important guests, only to have the lights go out due to a burnt fuse minutes before the guests arrive. The playwright uses a clever device to depict this calamity for our enjoyment. The reality of the situation is reversed. For example, when the lights are "on" in the artists apartment, they are technically "off" for the audience. We cannot see them. However, when the fuse blows, the actors are suddenly plunged into darkness, but the lights go "on" for the audience to be able to see the actors in their predicament. BLACK COMEDY invites you to sit back and laugh at the misfortunes of a young man who is plagued by the pressures of Twentieth Century living.

With its colloquial speech and refections on nostalgic remembrances of the past, HAPPY JOURNEY, by Thornton Wilder, returns us to a simpler, less complicated and traumatic way of life. It was a time when cars were still rare, when Ma and Pa piled the whole family into the back seat for a Sunday drive, and when strangers weren't afraid to exchange a friendly greeting.

Jr. Class Play

The "Do your own thing" syndrome was explored in the Junior Class Play production of Enter Laughing last March. The play was written by Joseph Stein, who adapted his ideas from the novel written by Carl Reiner. Directed by Mrs. Sue Daly and her student director JoAnne DeLucas, the play depicts the effort made by an adolescent fresh out of high school searching for a future that would fulfill his need to be a "someone" in this world. In pursuing an acting career, David, the main character, thwarts his parents' desire for him to be a druggist and his boss's wishes for him to be in the machine repair trade. But David does eventually "find himself" and acquires a sense of maturity through his hilarious experiences in the theater.

The class of 1970 hid a fond farewell to the Marple-Newtown stage with its stunning presentation of Inherit the Wind. This play, fittingly nicknamed "Windy," has a clear and direct message, which ideally suited the talents of the cast. Under the direction of the frank but always charming Mrs. Mildred Cadwallader, the story of the Scopes' Monkey Trial was vividly portrayed by everyone, from the live monkey to the last extra. The dynamic debating ability of Nathan Glazer came to the fore as he verbally grappled with the righteously pompous John Lehmann. The cast was characterized, on and offstage, by its experience and cooperative spirit as exemplified in the prayer meeting scene with the stern and sober reverend, Craig Amarnick. The long hours on stage and the gentle criticism by the director showed that the cast did, indeed, inherit the wind.

You, the woman; I, the man; this, the world:
And each is the work of all.

You, the village; I, the stranger; this, the road:
And each is the work of all.

Then, not that man do more, or stop pity; but that he be
Wider in living; that all his cities fly a clean flag . . .
We have been alone too long . . .
Look, with new eyes, on the world where we two are.

by Kenneth Patchen

DEDICATION, 1970

Often we forget to thank those people who help us in special ways. Our lives are so busy and complicated. Our worries are so prominent. Our successes are so exhilarating that we "don't have time." At this moment, however, we want to express our personal thank you to Dr. Sauers by dedicating this yearbook to him. We appreciate his honest concern for the class of 1970: his readiness to listen to our problems and proposals, his open-mindedness to bridge the generation gap, his flexibility, and his willingness to let us be ourselves. We are grateful because he allowed us to make our own mistakes and to profit by the results. But we're also grateful that he gave help when we faltered ("Oh, that Junior Class play!") and encouraged us when we succeeded (the rejuvenated magazine sale . . . the film festival . . . and hurrah! a new site for graduation). We hope that our unspoken thanks will be conveyed with the warmth and sincerity that we feel as we dedicate our Memories to Dr. Sauers.

All together, one by one:
All together we face the future,
One by one we carve the pattern
of our lives.
Each one is his own master.
And in the final analysis, it is not "we."
But rather, "I."
